THE MADE REAL BLUEPRINT / STEP 2

The town where I live

The same flat, the same street, the allotments by the river, my sister ten minutes away.

THE LIFE AROUND THE HOUSE

Travel times as I recorded them, not measured on a map. A green dot is something I checked; an ochre dot is still an estimate.

Stay here and change the week

My sister nearby, work I am good at, and rent I can pay without counting.

FROM RESEARCH TO REAL LIFE

What I learned here

I use the evenings when something is waiting for me outside. The Friday was the best day of the month.

THE VISIT / IN MY OWN WORDS

> “Yes. The ordinary week is the part I like. What I could not live with was the evening disappearing into work.”

AN ORDINARY WEEK

> “Twice I kept the evening free and then filled it with work anyway, because nobody asked me not to.”

WHAT I WOULD RATHER NOT HAVE SEEN

WHAT CHANGED

I stopped looking at houses abroad. The problem was the week, not the country.

THE NEXT CHECKS

More real than the guess

Step 1 · what I guessed a month would cost €2,210

Step 2 · what I found €2,198

What I found is €12 less than I guessed. €2,210 after the change, against €2,285 today.

+€162

a month, on the income I can count on €2,360 confirmed on four days. €120 hoped from weekend hours, not counted.

OPEN BEFORE THE NEXT DECISION

- Whether my manager will agree, and whether I keep the evenings free once nobody is watching.

MY NEXT SMALL STEP / REVIEW ON IN 8 WEEKS

Ask my manager for a meeting about four days.

My legal route, as I recorded it: Nothing changes. Same country, same contract, same address. A four-day week needs a written request and my notice period.
